Aloha from Maresa

Spring is a lovely, albeit transitional, time of year. It's long past the New Year and not quite summer, but there's renewal in the air. Whether you take that energy into your professional life or focus is on your hunt for a new home, it's the perfect time of year for a fresh start.

This issue's Maui cover home, Hekili Point Estate, is just five minutes from Lahaina Town yet surrounded by remote seclusion. This grand estate is comprised of three plantation structures set on 1.34 acres of land with a sprawling ocean lawn, 75-foot pool and spa, tropical gardens, and walkways. For more information on this oceanfront sanctuary, presented by Mary Anne Fitch, turn to page 55.

Ossipoff, an exclusive auspicious design in an uncommon location with distinctive architectural features. Through the private redwood gates one finds a friendly, warm, organic surprise. Along the rock garden, an extended pergola connects the garage to the understated, airy, livable home—freshly redesigned in 1988. Breathe in the fresh heated spa water pouring into the lap pool as the views overtake your eyes. Natural materials, built-in cabinets, hardwood flooring, vaulted wood ceilings, and window louvers surround the home for air to circulate. Relax in the mature backyard with extensive landscape lighting by the outdoor fireplace. Sensitive to the earth with a careful respect for topography, a life of its own this home truly has. "You will like it when you see it," Vladimir Ossipoff.

WHO BOUGHT
HAWAII PROPERTY IN 2018?

PRESENTED BY TITLE GUARANTY

Despite concerns that US markets, and subsequently, real estate, would soon be experiencing a market correction, Hawaii's real estate market underwent a decline of only 0.1%, a drop that consisted of just 27 fewer sales. As in past years, buyers from Hawaii and Japan purchased the vast majority of local properties.

US BUYER MARKET: HAWAII DOMINATES

In 2018, 95.4% of all sales in the islands were by domestic buyers, of which 76.1% were buyers from Hawaii. This figure (15,530 sales) represented a 1.8% drop in Hawaii buyers from 2017. By contrast, California's 1,692 purchases represented 8.3% of the total market and was the next closest domestic buyer demographic, but jumped 6.5% in 2018.

Washington, Texas, Colorado, Oregon, Florida, Nevada, Arizona and New York rounded out the top 10 state buyers.

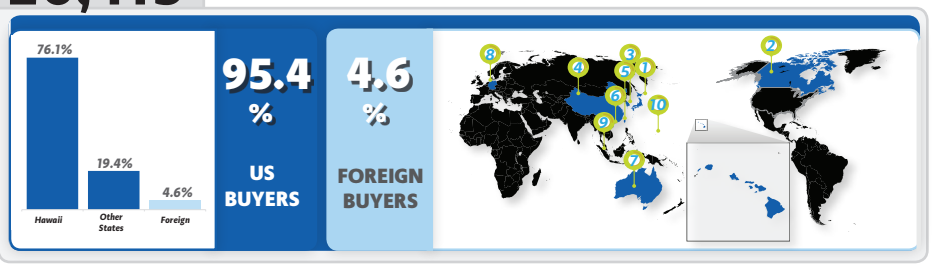

FOREIGN BUYER MARKET: JAPAN STILL KEY

Japan remained Hawaii's largest international buyer demographic, comprising 65.7% of all foreign buyers in the islands. From 2017, Japanese buyers underwent a 42.5% increase in purchases, but represented just 3.0% of the overall market.

Canadian buyers jumped 15.0%, purchasing 169 properties (18.2% of all foreign buyer purchases). Korea, China, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Australia, Germany, Singapore and Guam rounded out the top foreign buyer countries. The remainder of purchases made by foreign buyers were from 27 other countries.

Secluded Hekili Point Estate

West Maui's Oceanfront sanctuary is peaceful and private with a rare exotic Hawaiian ambience. It's resplendent historical location in Olowalu, home to Hawaiian royalty, is ideally located only five minutes from Lahaina Towne, but feels worlds away. Remote seclusion surrounds you. Tremendous shoreline views include the islands of Kahoolawe and Molokini as well as Lanai and Molokai. Whales can be seen and heard. Ocean access for water sports is just steps away. Olowalu's reef system is truly magnificent—the double reef creates a really unique calm lagoon with coral heads visible during low tide.

This grand estate is comprised of three plantation structures set on 1.34 acres of land with a sprawling ocean lawn, 75-foot pool and spa, tropical gardens and walkways. Designed by Glen Mason, an award-winning architect renowned for cultural heritage preservation incorporated into new construction, includes authentic design features of 1930's Kama'aina architecture—wide verandas, wood floors, spacious rooms with high ceilings, and double-pitched roofs.

The main home contains three master suites, each with its own sitting room, bedroom, bath with shower and tub, private Lanai, Walk-in-closet, laundry and magnificent ocean views. The ocean view Ohana has its own gate-entrance from the driveway, kitchen, master suite, bath and outdoor shower beautifully linked to the main home by a trellised walkway. The third building houses a gym, steam room and an additional suite above. Other phenomenal features include a "real" chef's kitchen, intimate library and media room, a fireplace in the great room and aquatic pond. Fantastic gathering areas abound both inside and out. Perfect for entertaining and enjoying croquet, bocce, kayaking, whale watching, dolphins, turtles, monk seals and more.
