Aloha from Maresa

Say Aloha! Send editorial & advertising inquiries to info@lhmhi.com

There are very few places in this world where you can sit poolside all year-round. Even desert destinations such as Palm Springs and Las Vegas have an official “pool season.” Thankfully, Hawaii provides the opportunity to sunbathe and play in the pool every day, all year long. This issue we celebrate some of the islands’ most spectacular pools and spas.

From this issue’s Oahu cover home, you can sit in the pool and spa to soak in views of the Pacific in one direction and Diamond Head in the other. With 183 linear feet of ocean frontage, you’ll have enviable beach access. For more information about Diamond Head Perfection by the Sea, presented by Tracy Allen, turn to pages 4 and 5.

Flip through the pages in this issue to find these featured pools and more.

The ocean is great for so many reasons, but sometimes you just want a pool of pristine water brought to your ideal temperature. Consider the following types of pools when creating your own backyard oasis.

Natural pools offer a nod to nature's own creations, and can blend with the surroundings or stand out as a whimsical lagoon where mermaids could be lounging. They are established with a freeform shape that could be meant to mimic a specific body of water, or simply to have a more fluid space. Materials such as stone or simulated rock are used to border or create caves, grottos, and tanning or diving ledges.

One of the most stunning accessories for a natural pool is a water feature. This could be a fountain, waterfall, smaller pool for show, or even a water slide. For waterfalls, position rocks appropriately to create a spillway from an elevated pool or spa into a lower pool.

On the other end of the style spectrum is an architectural pool. The most popular, stunning, and streamlined version is the infinity pool. Otherwise known as a negative edge, disappearing edge, zero edge, or vanishing edge pool, an infinity pool produces the illusion of water extending to the horizon. The effect is simply breathtaking, and when paired with the backdrop of sky or another body of water, the combination creates the feeling that the horizon is literally infinite and the reality of an impossibly beautiful pool.

The Lap of LUXURY

Written by Maresa Giovannini

No matter which type of amazing swimming pool you choose to install in your home, there are plenty of fantastic details that can turn a simple shape into a stunning backyard feature. Sculptures are rich additions to any pool. And swim-up bars are also a fun and extravagant extra that can make your pool stand apart.

Depending on your backyard theme and the bar's intended purpose, there are countless styles, materials, and sizes to choose from. Regardless, being able to relax in the water on a humid day while simultaneously sipping iced beverages or nibbling on afternoon snacks is quite an impressive luxury for you and your guests. Even when you live in a geographical location surrounded by water, a private swimming pool provides an intimate place for you and your loved ones to relax, float, sunbathe, and just to be—in the ultimate lap of luxury. ●

Geographic Targeting Orders – Current Criteria

Mike B. Pietsch
President | COO

Geographic Targeting Orders (GTOs) were first issued in January 2016 for certain all-cash purchases of high-end, residential real estate in designated areas throughout the country by the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN). The purpose behind the orders is to assist the government in combatting money laundering schemes in connection with purchases of luxury residential real estate properties by entities, behind which purported money-launderers may try to hide.

Over the last three years, the order has been revised, with the most significant change in criteria being the lowering of the minimum purchase price. Under the current order, which is set to expire May 15, 2019 but which most people in the industry expect to be extended, reporting is required on transactions where the following conditions exist:

- A “Legal Entity” – a corporation, limited liability company, partnership or other similar business entity – purchases residential property (previously a trust was

- included in this criteria); and
- Purchase price is $300,000 or more, and located in defined geographic areas including the City & County of Honolulu; and
- Purchase is made without a bank loan or similar form of external financing; and
- Any part of the purchase is made using currency; a cashier’s, certified, personal, traveler’s, or business check; a money order; or a funds transfer.

When the transaction falls within these parameters, a title insurance company issuing title insurance for the transaction is required to report and obtain a copy of the driver’s license, passport, or other similar identification of individuals primarily responsible for representing the purchaser, and similar information from the Beneficial Owners of the purchasing entity. A Beneficial Owner includes each individual who directly or indirectly owns 25% or more of the equity interests of the purchaser. If the purchaser is a limited liability company, then the reporting must also include the name, address, and taxpayer identification number, if any, of all of its members regardless of their ownership share. Title insurance companies have created forms to assist in the gathering of this information.

FinCEN emphasizes that the GTOs are not intended to stop real estate transactions. As a practical matter, however, it is important for purchasers and their agents who may be involved in transactions covered by the GTO to be aware of the reporting requirements and to proactively avoid delays by providing the organizational documents as early as possible regarding purchasing entities and their owners.

“Title Guaranty’s Escrow Officers are educated and experienced in working with the GTO and are fulfilling FinCEN’s requirements on a daily basis. As the neutral third party to the transaction, we have processes in place to ensure all federal requirements are met and your transaction runs smoothly.” - Mike B Pietch, President | COO
