Candy Cane VODKA Recipes

One of our favorite holiday indulgences is Candy Cane Vodka. This peppermint-infused spirit has a sweet yet minty flavor that will be a favorite treat at all your holiday parties. It can be served straight, used to make a cocktail, or paired with hot chocolate or coffee. Candy Cane Vodka is extremely easy to make. Drop 3 medium-size candy canes into 500 ml (approximately 2 cups) of vodka in the bottle of your choice. The candy will begin to melt immediately. Cap the bottle, then stir or shake the mixture to dissolve any residual sugar. That's all! The vodka is ready to use.

Cheers and Happy Holidays!

Open spaces allow trade winds to circulate, projecting eaves keep rain out without closing windows, and the use of clerestory windows brings outside light into the home. Nishikawa Architects was influenced by the iconic work of C.W. Dickey, and this property was the winner of BIA Hawaii's 2016 Grand Award for design excellence. The property embodies the aloha spirit of island lifestyle with maximum privacy. It offers a unique combination of proximity to the airport, hospital and shopping while preserving seclusion. Reached by a winding private road that arrives under the porte-cochere of the main entrance, the unique setting and landscaping of the site itself is reminiscent of a hilltop chateau or private island.

An Eye for Detail

Interior home design has seen its share of trends. And depending on the region and the season, there will always be another it style, color, or pattern.

Written by Maresa Giovannini

Thankfully, architectural styles are more enduring and the structure of a well-built home is always in fashion. Although architecture is a big-picture concept, it is composed of countless details to achieve the final spectacular product. If you would like to highlight the existing architectural details in your luxury home or incorporate additional accents, take note of the following tips and tricks.

Architectural details can be understated like crown molding or dramatic like columns. Regardless of the statement a detail makes, give your home the finishing touch with some of these elements. The entryway provides the first impression for your entire home. Include grand columns, stained glass, a specialty door knocker, stylish shutters, or a hand-carved front door.

Arched or statement doorways can help provide a graceful transition between rooms. In the living room, highlight the fireplace and mantel with a spectacular surround. Add built-ins to display your literary collectibles or treasured family photos. A window seat creates an unexpected yet welcoming corner to curl up and read. In any room, unconventional ceilings such as coffered, tray, or exposed beam make a statement.

For a dramatic visual difference both day and night, change up your paint colors. If a wood-beam ceiling is painted or stained all one shade, select a different color or stain for the beams. Bring out detailed doors with a dramatic tint, and consider changing the color of your trim. If you don't already have decorative trim, add some in the traditional sense or as a chair rail. Outside, add artful pergolas or well-designed pathways over interior courtyard ponds.

Look for salvaged pieces to add historic significance to your new home. If you like the concept of a unique banister post but don't have a staircase, be inventive and repurpose the item for a new use. For example, gather four banister posts, reinforce them, and use them as table legs. Try and find out where your salvaged materials were originally used so you can gain more appreciation for historical details. These renovations are environmentally friendly, affordable, and can add a bit of history to a contemporary home. ●

TITLE GUARANTY
HAWAII

UNDERSTANDING EASEMENTS

Presented by
TITLE GUARANTY

IN SUMMARY, WHEN A PROPERTY IS BURDENED OR BENEFITED BY EASEMENTS, A BUYER SHOULD CLEARLY DETERMINE:

- What rights are included and who has the rights?
- Is there a maintenance agreement that addresses maintenance, repair, and liability?
- Will maintenance funds be collected and what are the consequences if funds are not paid?
- Do the rights run with the land?

“Easements can be a complex matter when buying property in Hawaii. At Title Guaranty, our Title Officers’ extensive experience with easements allows them to help buyers navigate the process to ensure both the buyer’s and seller’s rights are protected.”

MIKE B. PIETSCH
PRESIDENT & COO
TITLE GUARANTY

When purchasing property in Hawaii, a buyer’s due diligence should include carefully reviewing the title report to determine if the subject property is burdened and/or benefited by an easement right. What is shown on the title report could make or break the transaction.

For example, if the report reveals the neighbor has the right to use the property’s driveway, the buyer should inquire about the ramifications of the neighbor’s right. Are there any limitations? Is the easement exclusive or non-exclusive? Does the neighbor share the responsibility for the maintenance, repair, and liability of the driveway?

When buying property on a roadway that is not public, it is the title professional’s obligation to determine if the property has a legal right of access over the road and report the findings in the title report. The buyer should ascertain if the right of access includes the burden of liability and the obligation to keep the road in good repair. Along with this responsibility, will fees need to be paid on a monthly or yearly basis?

Beachfront properties may be subject to public or private beach access easements. If it’s public, a buyer should expect a fair amount of usage at all hours. If it’s private, a buyer should try to determine how many lots have the right to use the access easement.

An easement is a non-possessory interest in another’s land that allows the easement holder the right of use on property he/she does not own. The most common types of easements are for utility, view, and access.
