Aloha from Maresa

Say Aloha! Send editorial & advertising inquiries to info@lhmhi.com

We love the excitement that comes with potential. A new year comes with new unknowns but also endless possibilities. Where will you go, who will you meet, what will you accomplish?

If you are working on a slower lifestyle or want a retreat to help you recoup from city life, consider Oahu's North Shore. This issue's cover home, 57-457 Honokawela Drive, is a spacious, sandy beachfront property with room to build a second guest cottage. It's the perfect place to get away from it all and dip your toes in the sand. Learn more about this dream locale, presented by Sean F. Ginella, on pages 32 and 33.

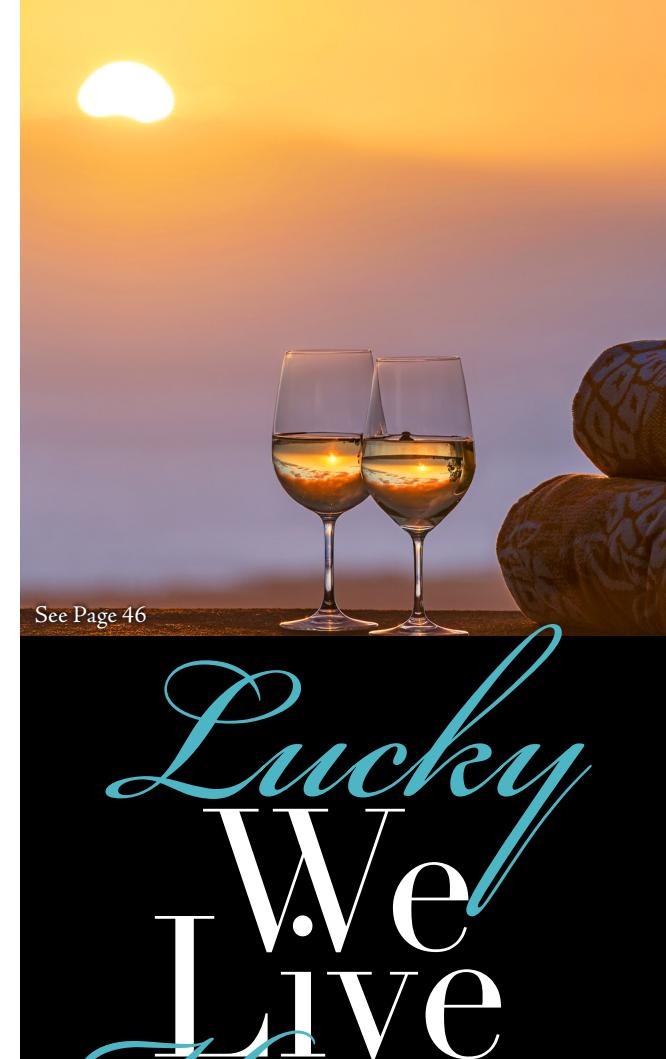

Thank you for taking the time to pick up the magazine, read this note, and share some Aloha. We appreciate you!

Mahalo,

Interior home design has seen its share of trends. And depending on the region and the season, there will always be another it style, color, or pattern. Thankfully, architectural styles are more enduring, and the structure of a well-built home is always in fashion. Although architecture is a big-picture concept, it is composed of countless details to achieve the final, spectacular product. If you would like to highlight the existing architectural details in your luxury home or incorporate additional accents, take note of the following tips and tricks.

Architectural details can be understated like crown molding or dramatic like columns. Regardless of the statement a detail makes, give your home the finishing touch with some of these elements. The entryway provides the first impression of your entire home. Include grand columns, stained glass, a specialty door knocker, stylish shutters, or a hand-carved front door.

Arches and curves provide graceful transitions throughout a home. In the living room, highlight the fireplace and mantel with a spectacular surround. Add built-ins to display your literary collectibles or treasured family photos. A window seat creates an unexpected yet welcoming corner to curl up and read. In any room, unconventional ceilings such as coffered, tray, or exposed beam make a statement.

For a dramatic visual difference both day and night, change up your paint colors. If a wood-beam ceiling is painted or stained all one shade, select a different color or stain for the beams. Bring out detailed doors with a dramatic tint, and consider changing the color of your trim. If you don't already have decorative trim, add some in the traditional sense or as a chair rail. Outside, add artful pergolas or well-designed pathways over interior courtyard ponds.

Look for salvaged pieces to add historic significance to your new home. If you like the concept of a unique banister post but don't have a staircase, be inventive and repurpose the item for a new use. For example, gather four banister posts, reinforce them, and use them as table legs. Research where your salvaged materials were originally used so you can gain more appreciation for historical details. These updates are environmentally friendly, affordable, and can add a bit of history to a contemporary home. ●
